Unmoved at Verdict

MOTION ENTERED
FOR NEW TRIAL

"We, the jury, find the defendant, Frank Nunes, guilty of manslaughter in manner and form as charged in the indictment, and by a majority of 12 to 11 we find the defendants, Mrs. Mary Nunes and Jacob DeOrnellas, not guilty."

A verdict in the Nunes case was reached at 2:40 o'clock this (Saturday) morning and was returned to the court at 2:49 o'clock. The verdict found Frank Nunes guilty of manslaughter and Mrs. Mary Nunes and Jacob DeOrnellas not guilty.

The defendants were unmoved at the reading of the verdict.

When the jury was brought into the courtroom the foreman, B. F. Henderson, gave the verdict to the deputy sheriff, who turned it over to the court.

As soon as the verdict was read Attorney Haigrove, for the defense, asked that the jury be polled and after this was done he entered a motion for a new trial for the defendant, Frank Nunes. The court ordered the defendants, Mrs. Mary Nunes and Jacob DeOrnellas, discharged and their bond released, after which court was adjourned until 9 o'clock this morning.

The evidence of the case was concluded just before noon Friday, after Frank Nunes, one of the defendants, and Mrs. Grace Nunes had testified. The argument began in the afternoon when J. O. Priest opened on behalf of the state. He was followed by John M. Butler, J. Marshall Miller and William N. Haigrove for the defense, in the order named, and then T. F. Smith closed for the state. The instructions by the court were given at a night session and the jury retired at 9:30 o'clock.

As soon as it was announced that the jury had reached a verdict Judge Jones, Circuit Clerk E. D. Pyatt, Acting State's Attorney T. F. Smith and Attorney W. N. Haigrove, were notified and a deputy sheriff went to the jail to bring Frank Nunes into court. In less than half an hour the judge, the prosecuting and defending attorneys and all of the defendants were in court, but some little delay was caused in notifying Circuit Clerk Pyatt. Mrs. Mary Nunes was accompanied to the court room by Mrs. Irene Fortado and Mrs. Grace Nunes and among the other relatives in court at the time of the reading of the verdict were Charles Nunes, Norman Nunes, Dr. J. U. Day was also present. Mrs. Nunes and Jacob Ornellas, remaining at his residence during the night.

The jury was composed of H. W. Dinwiddie, Arcadia; L. R. Watson, Woodson; W. W. Robertson, Prentice; John A. Allan, Lynnville; Samuel Angelo, Lynnville; L. C. Myer, Concord; J. F. Eckhoff, Jacksonville; Curtis Scott, Franklin; B. F. Henderson, Jacksonville; Chas. Aufdenkamp, Chapin; George A. Moore, Jacksonville and Thomas Morrison, Concord.

The first witness on the stand Friday morning was Jacob De Ornellas whose examination had not been finished when court adjourned on Thursday. Nothing especially new developed from his examination other than it established that the shooting occurred about 10 minutes after Tony Nunes reached his home on the night of the alleged crime.

Sheriff W. B. Rogers was next called and was questioned in reference to matters relating to the serving of a peace warrant but this evidence was stricken.

Then Charles Nunes, a son of Tony Nunes took the stand. He said that he was leaving his father's home on the afternoon of Feb. 3rd, and had a bale of hay on the sled when his father remonstrated with him and called him a vile name. Then he said that his father knocked him down. There was further quarrelling about the day and the witness said that he told his father that he had a right to some of the hay as settlement had not been made for the baling and something was due him. The witness was asked to identify a club or Billy which it was said that his father had carried about.

Dr. J. U. Day on Stand.

Dr. J. U. Day was the next witness and told of his visit to the Nunes home in afternoon and night of Feb. 3rd. He was called in the

THREE TRUST BILLS PASSED BY HOUSE

VOTE SHOWS LITTLE OPPOSITION TO ANY OF THE MEASURES

House Passes the Covington Interstate Trade Commission Bill, the Clayton Omnibus Anti-Trust Bill and the Rayburn Railroad Capitalization Measure.

WASHINGTON, June 5.—All three bills on the administration trust legislation program passed the house late today and were sent to the senate for action there. Opposition melted away when the test came and the voting went through quickly and without incident. The Covington interstate trade commission bill was passed without a record vote, the Clayton omnibus anti-trust measure received 275 votes to 54 against it and the vote on the Rayburn railroad capitalization bill was 325 to 12.

The clerk hardly had finished the last roll call before the house had settled down to consideration of the sundry civil appropriation bill one of the several supply measures that must be disposed of before the session ends. The adjournment problem now is squarely up to the senate and the Democratic leaders on that side of the capital are expected to agree upon a program in the near future. Action on the trust bills in the house came rather unexpectedly. The three measures had been agreed to in "committee of the whole" after weeks of speech-making, consideration of the Rayburn bill as amended by the committee being completed late this afternoon.

When the trade commission bill came before the house for a final vote Progressive Leader Murdock of Kansas moved that it be sent back to the interstate commerce commission with instructions to report the Murdock bill as a substitute. This was rejected 151 to 19 and the pending bill was passed without a roll call. Then the votes on the other two measures were taken in rapid succession.

Representative White of Ohio was the only Democrat to vote against the Clayton bill and the Progressives voted for it except Representative Chandler of New York. Forty-three Republicans and sixteen Progressives joined the majority in supporting the measure. They are: Republicans: Anderson, Barton, Burke, South Dakota; Campbell, Cary, Cramton, Curry, Davis, Dillon, Fair, Frear, French, Gardner, Good, Green, Iowa; Haughen, Hawley, Helgesen, Johnson, Washington; Kelley, Michigan; Kenney, Iowa; Kent, Kinkaid, Nebraska; LaFollette, Leuroot, McKenzie, McLaughlin, Maes, Mondell, Morgan, Oklahoma; Moss, West Virginia; Porter, Roberts, Nevada; Scott, Sloan, Sloan, Smith, Idaho; J. M. C. Smith, Michigan; Stafford, Sutherland, Towner, Vane and Woods—43.

Progressive: Bell, California; Bryan, Copley, Falconer, Hinebaugh, Hullings, Kelley, Pennsylvania; Lindzergh, McDonald, Murdock, J. I. Nolan, California; Ruple, Temple, Thomson, Illinois; Walters and Woodruff—16.

The eight Republicans and four Democrats who voted against the Rayburn bill are:

Democrats: Bartlett, Buchanan, Texas; Garner and Witherspoon—4. Republicans: Cramton, Michigan; Dunn, Fairchild, Gillett, Moore, Parker, Payne and Wallin—8.

CLEAR DECKS FOR VOTE ON REPEAL BILL

GENERAL DEBATE ON MEASURE MAY BE BROUGHT TO CLOSE TO-DAY

Exemption Bill Will Come Up This
Noon to the Exclusion of All
Other Business—Three Speakers
Yet to Be Heard—Other Washington News.

WASHINGTON, June 5.—The senate tonight finally cleared the decks for the vote on the tolls exemption repeal and leaders were hopeful that general debate on the subject may be brought to a close tomorrow and the bill and all the amendments proposed to it disposed of early next week.

After listening all day to speeches on subjects far removed from tolls, the senate recessed until 11 o'clock tomorrow, when the exemption bill will come up automatically, to the exclusion of all other business. Senator Cummins is expected to conclude his speech on the subject and leaders hope that Senators Pointexter and La Follette, who are understood to have prepared speeches, will conclude before adjournment tomorrow night. It is hoped is realized, the way will be open for a vote on the amendments on Monday, and it was believed tonight that the bill itself may be reached on Tuesday.

Although the tolls bill was technically before the senate, it was not discussed at all today, and the announcement tonight that the measure would take precedence of all other business tomorrow led to a sharp interchange between Senators Owen and Gallinger on the need of a senate rule to limit debate.

Proposes Federal Arbitration.

Senator Owens' proposed resolution for federal arbitration of the Colorado strike troubles, as prepared today after consultation with Senators Thomas and Shafroth would empower the president to appoint a mining engineer, an army or navy engineer, a man familiar with the handling of coal as merchandise, a sociologist and an employer of labor—five in all. It will be introduced in the senate later.

Attacks "Criminal Trust."

Senator Reed of Missouri attacked the General Motors company, which he termed a "criminal trust" in the senate today and said he thereby called upon the attorney general to proceed against the concern. The senator was speaking in reply to a letter written by Henry M. Leland, president of a Detroit motor car company, read in the senate yesterday by Senator Townsend. It asserted business was halting because of a distrust of Washington and called upon congress to adjourn. The Detroit company is a part of the General Motors company.

Another Complication in Bill.

Another complication faced the senate today in the Panama canal tolls exemption dispute when Senator Sutherland introduced as an amendment to the repeal bill his resolution for arbitration.

The Sutherland resolution was approved by the foreign relations committee several days ago, but had no right of way before the senate. Its appearance as an amendment means that it must be voted on before the bill itself.

President Wilson is understood to have expressed unwillingness to arbitrate before the repeal is passed and many senators who are standing with the president but who favor arbitration are in a quandary.

LABOR EDITOR IN JAIL AT
CLINTON WILL BE RELEASED

Writ of Habeas Corpus is Issued For Release of Carl Person, Accused of Killing Strike Breaker.

Chicago, June 5.—A writ of habeas corpus for the release of Carl Person, labor editor in jail at Clinton, Ills., charged with the murder of a strike breaker employed in Illinois Central shops, was issued here today by Judge Charles M. Walker, chief justice of the criminal branch of the circuit court.

The writ was granted here on the representation that one of the judges in the judicial district in which Clinton is located died a month ago and the other two are too ill to hear the matter.

A deputy sheriff from Cook county will endeavor to serve the writ tomorrow and Person will be brought to Chicago to appear before Judge Walker on Monday. Counsel for Person said tonight he would subpoena a number of state's witnesses at the hearing here in an effort to show that Person has been wrongfully confined in jail at Clinton for the last five months.

DETECTIVES TELL OF RAPP'S ASSOCIATION WITH MRS. DEAN

Alleged Visits to Her Apartments
Detailed in Depositions Read in Court at Divorce Suit of Mme.
Schumann-Heink.

Chicago, June 5.—Alleged visits of William Rapp, Jr., to the apartments of Mrs. Katherine Dean of New York, named as co-respondent in the suit for divorce from Rapp by Mme. Schumann-Heink, were detailed today in several depositions read in court. These calls were made at all hours and some of them continued until daylight, according to the affidavits.

The associations of Rapp and Mrs. Dean were sworn to by detectives, who said they trailed them to the apartments; by the janitor of the building; by Mrs. Dean's landlady and by a negro messenger, who asserted he saw the pair enter a hotel in New York on a February night in 1913.

The court ruled today that questions concerning the earlier marriages of the singer would not be permitted at this trial. Effort was made yesterday to prove by her daughter Marie that Schumann was only the "stage name" of her first husband.

Mme. Schumann-Heink said she had almost abandoned hope that the trial would be completed in time to permit her to sing at the Wagner festival at Baireuth, Germany, on June 15.

Counsel for Rapp asserted several days would be consumed in the introduction of evidence of the defense.

PRESIDENT ADDRESSES
GRADUATES AT ANNAPOLIS

Refers to Army and Navy as Instruments of Civilization, Not As Instruments of Aggression.

Annapolis, Md., June 5.—"I pray God it may be necessary for our boys at Vera Cruz, to use any more force," reverently declared President Wilson today in the course of his address to the graduates of the naval academy. He spoke in the presence of a gathering of more than 5,000 persons, made up largely of present and future officers of the navy. The president referred to the American army and navy as the instruments of civilization, not as the instruments of aggression.

"Other nations have been strong," he said, "other nations have piled wealth as high as the sky but they have come to disgrace because they used their force and their wealth for the oppression of mankind and their own aggrandizement; and America will not bring glory to herself but disgrace, by following the beaten paths of history. We must strike out on new paths."

President Wilson left Annapolis late this afternoon on board the Mayflower for Washington, expecting to arrive there at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning. He took lunch with Captain Fullam and later inspected the naval academy. As the Mayflower steamed out of the Severn a presidential salute was fired from shore.

O'Brien, state labor commissioner and director of the state free employment bureau. His estimate is based on the reports of correspondents in every county in the state, however, for fear of overstocking the labor market in the event that some of the estimates are duplicated his first call is for 42,000 men only.

AMERICAN SCHOONER LANDS AMMUNITION

MUNITIONS OF WAR LANDED AT
TAMPIO FOR CONSTITUTIONALISTS

State and Navy Department Officials Decline to Verify Report—
Landing is Made Without Interference From United States or the Huerta Government.

WASHINGTON, June 5.—Information reaching Washington late today that the American Schooner Sunshine from Galveston had landed ammunition at Tampico for the Mexican constitutionalists without interference on the part of the United States or the Huerta government was received in official quarters here without comment.

State department and navy department officials declined to verify the report but from other sources it was learned that the presence of the Sunshine off Tampico with arms aboard consigned to the constitutionalists had been known to the Washington government for several days. In view of the fact that there had been considerable apprehension regarding the attitude the United States might take toward the landing of ammunition at this Mexican port the actual delivery of munitions was for the enemies of the Huerta government without interference was regarded with significance. With the Cuban Steamer Antilla enroute from New York to Tampico with arms consigned to Carranza's forces there has been much speculation as to what the United States would do in case the Huerta government should attempt a blockade of the port. Every indication tonight however, was that the United States would maintain its previously announced position that Tampico was an open port.

The movements of arms pending results of mediation at Niagara Falls and the proposals to the constitutionalists to participate in the peace negotiations have been followed by rumors of disapproval on the part of the South American envoys engaged in the effort to compose the Mexican situation.

Secretary Bryan tonight denied that any such representations had been made to the state department. Foreign diplomats in Washington displayed great interest in the situation arising from the shipment of war munitions to Mexican ports and they were watching closely for news of a formal declaration of a blockade by the Huerta government. In diplomatic circles the belief is general that a decision on the part of the United States to prevent a blockade would result in many complications and menace success of mediation. It was suggested inasmuch as the American government had made no effort to interfere with the constitutionalist campaign against the Mexican federalists at Tampico or other Mexican cities, interference with the order belligerent in its efforts to strike at delivery of munitions of war to its enemy would constitute a grave violation of neutrality.

No messages relating to mediation were received at the constitutionalist headquarters here today from General Carranza, now aboard a train bound for Saltillo. The answer of the constitutionalist first chief to the note of the mediators it was expected would be received on Monday.

CANADIAN GOVERNMENT OVERRULES PROVINCIAL OFFICER

Authorities Assert That if "Mother"
Jones Seeks to Enter Country as a Lecturer or Tourist She Cannot Be Excluded.

Seattle, Washington, June 5.—A message received today from an officer of the Vancouver Central Labor Union stated that the Canadian government at Ottawa had overruled the chief of the provincial police of British Columbia, who caused "Mother" Mary Jones to be excluded from Canada on the ground that she would be likely to cause trouble by addressing the striking coal miners at Nanaimo.

The manner was brought to the attention of the Canadian government by the Vancouver member of the Canadian parliament. The British Columbia authorities were notified, according to labor union officials here, that if "Mother" Jones sought to enter the country as a lecturer or a tourist she could not be excluded.

Secretary of Labor Wilson telegraphed today to Frank Farrington, member of the International Executive board of the United Mine Workers of America, that he had referred to Secretary of State Bryan the exclusion of "Mother" Jones.

Coal operators have been in conference with Premier McBride several days concerning a compromise which will bring about a settlement of the long strike.

NEW HAVEN INVESTIGATION
MAY CONCLUDE NEXT WEEK

Ledyard in Ending Testimony Said
He Did Not Consider the Directors
Were "Dummies".

Washington, June 5.—There were indications at the conclusion of today's session of the inquiry into the affairs of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad by the interstate commerce commission that the investigation would be completed next week. Lewis Cass Ledyard concluding the statement he began yesterday said he did not consider the directors of the New Haven were "dummies" and that he had often opposed J. P. Morgan at meetings.

He had several clashes with Chief Counsel Cook and insisted on answering questions in his own way.

T. DeWitt Cuyler, a New Haven director, said the meetings of the board were conducted in a careful manner. Arthur C. Clark, secretary of the New Haven, identified and read minutes of directors and committee meetings and figures designed to show that between June 30th, 1903 and June 30th, 1912, the profit and loss surplus of the New Haven had decreased only about $1,300,000, were read by Julian M. Tomlinson, general auditor of the road.

Prompts Charges Made Against Him in Breach of Promise Suit.

Springfield, Ills., June 5.—State Auditor James J. Brady today declared that politics was at the bottom of the charges brought against him by Mrs. Mary Quinlan Kuhns-Brady in the latter's suit for $50,000 for breach of promise. The auditor said he would urge an early trial and would present his case in open court. He said he thought it improper to try the case in the newspapers. Relative to charges that the auditor was carrying several relatives on payrolls the auditor said his relatives were earning every dollar paid.

The records show that Miss Mary Brady, a sister of the auditor, is employed as assistant bank examiner at $300 a month. Mrs. Lena Brady, widow of the auditor's brother, is employed as a stenographer in the Chicago office at $100 a month.

JUDGE LADD FILES TWO
APPEALS IN FEDERAL COURT

Appeals Against Decision Giving All Property Formerly Belonging to

Presbyterian Church of U. S.

Kansas City, Mo., June 5.—Judge Sanford B. Ladd, filed two appeals in the federal court here today against the decision of Judge A. S. Van Valkenburgh last December, giving all the property formerly belonging to the Cumberland Presbyterian church in Missouri to the Presbyterian church of the United States of America. The value of the property valued at more than one and one half million dollars. One appeal deals with property in churches in the state and the other concerns the Missouri Valley college at Marshall, Mo., valued at one half million dollars.

The litigation grew out of the union of the two churches in 1906. Certain members of the Cumberland church refused to approve the action of their assembly in performing the union and claimed all the property of the church.

FRANK NUNES GUILTY OF MAN- SLAUGHTER; ORNELLAS AND MARY NUNES NOT GUILTY

afternoon to attend Norman Nunes who had been sick for some days. While there he heard Tony Nunes say that he would get a gun and kill all the members of the family, and said that Nunes took a drink of whiskey and offered him one. He told also of a conversation with Charles Nunes and of agreeing with him that it would be well to get out a peace warrant for his father. He also told of giving some medicine to Jacob De Ornellas. The witness also told of his night visit and described the condition of Tony Nunes whom he found lying on a bed and said that Mrs. Nunes was seated near the man's head and had been covering the wound with sugar and flour applied on a cloth.

The details of the taking of Tony Nunes to the hospital and the treatment given afterward was gone into, the witness testifying that he believed the man died from pneumonia and that there was on special connection between the wound and the pneumonia.

Then Joseph Nunes the youngest son of Tony Nunes told of a quarrel at home the Sunday prior to the shooting when he said that his father threatened to shoot the whole family and to do just like John W. Henry had done.

Frank Nunes Tells Story. Frank Nunes, one of the defendants in the case was placed upon the stand and gave his version of the affair which led up to the shooting. He told of various threats that his father had made and of the drinking he had been doing and of the quarrel with Charles Nunes. He said that the blinds were drawn on the night of the shooting because they were afraid his father might come to the house and shoot through the windows. He said that his father returned to the house about 10 o'clock that night and after taking a drink of whiskey that he stood by the stove a minute or two and then threatened to shoot the whole family and went into the next room and secured a shot gun. He said that about this time that his mother called out that his father had put a shell into the shot gun. He said that his father then came into the sitting room knocked his mother down and then called him a vile name and started after him with the gun saying that he would shoot him (the witness) or be shot. He said that he started up the stairs and that his father was still after him and then he shot in self defense. He said that during all this time Jacob De Ornellas had his father by the arm and was trying to restrain him. The witness admitted that Jacob De Ornellas had told him previously that he must protect himself. On cross-examination the witness showed some nervousness but his story was not materially altered.

Mrs. Charles Nunes was the next witness and went over in great detail all the events at the Nunes home on the afternoon of the shooting and also that night. The story was in every detail similar to that given by Frank Nunes and on cross examination the prosecution tried to make it appear that her testimony was so glibly given that she had gone over it very carefully with the attorneys or the defense.

THIEVES VISITED OTHER HOMES

The thieves who visited the residences of Drs. Dewey and Milligan and Alden Brown early Friday morning, concluded their prowling of the morning by entering the house of U. C. Woodman on West State street, by gaining entrance through the east door and ransacking the down stairs rooms. There was some silverware which they did not take and some money on the stand they overlooked. They also entered the residence of A. Wehl, 127 Webster avenue, and went both up and down stairs. All that was missed was a 25c piece. An old gunny sack was left outside the door, which it is supposed was to carry their booty in.

STOP KILLING THE BIRDS

Ninety Per Cent of the Bird Life of This Country Has Already Been Destroyed—Drastic Measures Should Be Employed to Stop the Slaughter—Farmers and Fruit Growers are Losing Over a Billion Dollars a Year by Ravages of Insects.

Is it worth while to try to save our forests, our shade trees, our fruit trees? If so, we must stop the killing of insect eating birds.

Careful scientists tell us that if all insect eating birds were destroyed the whole continent would within three years become absolutely uninhabitable by reason of the myriads of insects that would spring up and devour every living thing.

The Gypsy moth, the brown tail moth, the leopard moth, the elm tree beetle and the tent caterpillar have killed millions of trees in the past few years, and today they are imperiling every tree on the continent. The only way to check these insects to stop the killing of insect eating birds, and let them increase to their normal numbers.

Only Ten Per Cent Left. Ninety per cent of the normal bird life of this country has already been destroyed and the other ten per cent will go in a few years unless drastic measures are employed to stop the slaughter. The farmers and fruit growers of this country are losing over a billion dollars a year by reason of the ravages of insects. Here are a few items in this appalling expense account:

The cotton growers of Texas are losing 40 to 50 millions of dollars a year by reason of the ravages of the boll weevil, and all because the quail and the prairie chicken, the natural enemies of that bug, have been practically exterminated, in that state.

The wheat growers of the United States are losing a hundred million dollars a year by reason of the ravages of the chinch bug, because the quail, the natural enemy of that bug, has been almost exterminated.

The farmers of the middle eastern states are paying out fifteen million dollars a year for Paris green to put on their potato vines. Why? Because the quail, the natural enemy of that bug, has been killed off.

Each of the great apple producing states are paying one to three million dollars a year for spraying apple trees to keep down the codling moth. Why? Because the woodpeckers, the sap suckers, the robins, the blue jays, the blue birds, the orioles, the tanagers and other birds that formerly preyed on that insect have been killed off and every man, woman and child who eats an apple or a potato helps to pay for this poison.

Some Important Records.

A quail taken in a cotton field in Texas had in its craw the remains of 127 cotton boll weevils. Another taken in a potato field in Pennsylvania had in its craw the remains of 101 potato bugs. Another taken in an Illinois wheat field had in its craw the remains of over 1,200 chinch bugs. The Bob White has been known to eat 135 different kinds of insects, many of them the most injurious we have, the potato beetle, the cucumber beetle, cut worm, army worm, wire worm, chinch bug, corn ear worm, the cotton boll weevil and many others. Careful students of the subject estimate that a quail will eat an average of seventy-five thousand insects and six million weed seeds in a year—about seven and one-half pounds of insects and one hundred pounds of weed seeds.

3,000,000 Bushels of Insects. It is estimated that the birds during their stay in Illinois each season destroy more than three million bushels of noxious insects. Think of the consequence if the birds were all exterminated? And yet the slaughter goes on. Parents send their boys to Sunday school where they learn the beautiful Bible stories but they allow them to come home and take their air rifles and shoot the robins that have young birds in the nests.

Prominent naturalists agree that cats destroy more birds than any other animal except man. Dr. Fisher says that three and one-half million birds are killed in New York state each year by cats.

A well known naturalist estimates that the birds of Massachusetts eat 21,000 bushels of insects every day in summer; another that 170 car loads of insects are eaten every day by the birds of Nebraska.

To hold the insects in check we need to have our gardens, fields, pastures and roadsides literally alive with these useful birds.

There are 107 species of bugs that prey on elm trees, 264 that attack poplar, 396 that prey on the birches, 154 that work on the beech trees, and over 400 that attack oak trees.

The number of plant lice found on a single cherry tree was counted by Prof. Fitch to be twelve million. C. L. Martin calculates that the Hessian fly damage to the wheat crop in 1900 was one hundred million dollars. The chinch bug, as early as 1844, damaged staple crops one hundred million dollars. House martins, swallows and swifts eat rose beetles, May beetles, cucumber beetles, and house flies, practically all of which are caught on the wing. Naturalist Otto Martin says that 32 parent martins made 3,277 visits to their young with insects in one day. Fifty-one species of birds are known to eat hairy caterpillars, and 38 species feed on plant lice.

Shall we protect the birds? If we do, we must make closed seasons of several years for certain kinds of game. We must prohibit unnaturalized foreigners from hunting at any time. We must provide federal protection for migratory birds and finally we must stop absolutely the killing of all insect eating birds.—H. A. McKee, Secretary, Illinois Farm Institute.

TRADE CONDITIONS BETTER; IRREGULARITY STILL IN EVIDENCE

Jobbing Trade at Many Points Has Broadened—Interest is Gradually Developing in Fall and Winter Goods.

New York, June 5.—Bradstreet tomorrow will say: "Sentimentally and fundamentally trade conditions are better, even though irregularity is still in evidence. Jobbing trade, at many points outside of the southwest and particularly in the northwest has broadened, interest in fall and winter goods is gradually developing; there is more doing in retail lines; some improvement has appeared in collections; larger sales of southern pig-iron are noted, wool is active at strong prices; textile mills are fairly well employed; crop conditions have improved; railway traffic is heavier.

"On the other hand, finished steel takes tone principally from sentiment and not from any actual growth in business; employment is irregular, industrial operations taken in a collective sense are relatively slow."

Dun's Weekly Review.

New York, June 5.—Dun's Review tomorrow will say: "Advices from the leading commercial and industrial centers are more optimistic and the improved sentiment is reflected in some expansion in the volume of trade.

"Of late there has been a marked increase in the number of orders placed with manufacturers and there is much less idle machinery than a month ago. In leather conditions display some improvement, although concessions in prices are still noted.

"There is a healthier tone to the dry goods market. A better inquiry is noted for wool which has lost none of its former strength. The best feature of the iron and steel situation is the recent buying of pig-iron by leading cast-iron pipe interests, it being estimated that 100,000 tons were involved.

"Failures this week are 318 against 236 last year; Canada 30 against 31."

Bishop Samuel Fallows was elected commander and the next meeting is to be held in Mattoon.

NUNES MURDER TRIAL

She said in her testimony that she had gone up stairs just a minute or two before the shooting occurred in her statement before the grand jury she said she had been up stairs 15 minutes when the shot was heard. She was unable to explain as to this difference in her testimony.

The defense then rested the case and there was no rebuttal testimony as Cort Hughes, John H. Laurie and John G. Fernandes were disqualified in testifying because that had been in the room when testimony was being taken. Court was then adjourned until 1:30 o'clock agreement having been made that each side was to be allowed 2 hours for the closing argument.

Argument for State Opens.

At the afternoon session J. O. Priest in his opening remarks explained the law with reference to murder and manslaughter. He said that it is admitted Antonio Nunes is dead and that Frank Nunes shot him. Further he said, "Let us look at the Nunes home. The farm is owned by Mrs. Nunes and she was the boss and in charge of the details of all business. Antonio Nunes had a life insurance policy and Mrs. Nunes paid the premiums. The conditions were not normal in these matters. According to the evidence Frank Nunes prior to the killing never had any trouble with his father. The son has never shown any sign of remorse. He did not go to the hospital to see the father. The wound on Tony Nunes was on the back or side of the neck. Frank Nunes never had trouble with his father and never heard of this phrase of self defense until this trial came up. If Frank Nunes shot in self defense as his father came after him, how was it that a large part of the wound was in the back of Antonio Nunes' neck?"

"Jacob Ornellas says that Tony Nunes Sr., was hunting his son Tony and yet Frank Nunes says that his father was after him with the gun. Jacob Ornellas has not been able to explain what he was doing at the Nunes home all that day and that night. Why was Charles Nunes there that day and doesn't it look like Charles Nunes came here with some purpose. Why did his wife stay there that night and when did Charles Nunes get back to the house that night? Didn't it look like Charles Nunes was doing his part when he got out the warrant? Where is there any sign of grief on the part of any member of this family? Tony Nunes may have been a drunken sot but this has nothing to do with his right to live. Evidence is that Tony Nunes when drunk was not quarrelsome. Frank Nunes says that his father had a club or Billy that he carried all afternoon and made threats. Why didn't Jake Ornellas or some other witness say something about seeing this club? Dr. Day was an interested witness and testified that Tony Nunes died only from pneumonia. He was a doctor in Tony Nunes family and that may have been prejudiced."

Should Have Stayed Away.
"The testimony of the witness shows that Tony Nunes grew worse every day after he went to the hospital. What did Charles Nunes stay at the house for if he was afraid of his father? You will not be arrived at the house a little while after Mrs. Nunes called Jacob Ornellas. When the killing occurred and the poor wretch there had fired the gun Jacob Ornellas realizing that he had instigated the act, fell in a swoon and was assisted to a bed. He said not a word to any of the numerous ones who came to the house after the shooting. Jake Ornellas knew that he ought not to talk and he stayed on the bed. The defense has brought in the screw they claim belonged to the gun. Why did they not bring in the shell, too?"

"Antonio Nunes, just before he died, told his brother Sam that he had no gun when Frank fired on him. There is no question in my mind that Tony Nunes came to that darkened house and stood by the stove. Then there were words and Frank Nunes, who was stationed on the stairway, fired and Tony Nunes had received his mortal wound. Jacob Ornellas pulled down the curtains of the house and helped make this slaughter pen. Jacob Ornellas knew what was to happen. He knew Frank Nunes, this poor remorseless wretch of a boy, was on the stairway ready to shoot. I say he was cognizant of that was to be done and that he is guilty under the law."

Mr. Butler Speaks.

John M. Butler of the defense said, in part: "Beware of the attorney, who in the guise of fairness, does not follow out the evidence in his argument. If Mr. Priest had argued about the evidence of the prosecution he would have been through in five minutes. He talked almost solely about the defense of the witnesses for the defense. The law requires them to prove their case beyond a reasonable doubt. The facts are that Tony Nunes had been drinking for days and that he threatened to do as John Henry did. The evidence shows that Tony Nunes was drunk and that he was quarrelsome when under the influence of liquor. The evidence shows that Charles Nunes went for a warrant for his father to keep the peace. This was issued at 4 o'clock and if the warrant would have been served and if there was a plot then the sheriff must have been in it, too, because the doctor told Charles Nunes that the peace warrant would be a good idea. Frank Nunes is not quite normal; he only went to school a few years, and if his story had not been true Mr. Priest, an old experienced lawyer, could have tangled him. Sam Nunes testified as to what Tony Nunes told him before he died and I wonder why this statement was not reduced to writing. Mr. Smith was there, and yet no statement was written. The evidence of Dr. Duncan shows that the gunshot wound went along the side of Tony Nunes' face and took with it some of the skin from the back of his neck. If there was premeditation and Frank Nunes was located only a few feet from his father it would have been easy for him to have taken aim and let the father receive the whole charge from the weapon."

Mr. Miller Continues Argument.
J. Marshall Miller of the defense said, in part: "You, as jurors in this case, said in the beginning you would arrive at your decision from the evidence, and I remind you of it now. I have been appalled at the way that Mr. Priest in his speech went outside the evidence and suggested many things not shown by the facts. Mr. Priest has talked about conspiracy, whereas this trial is for murder. The material allegations in the indictment must be proved if a verdict of guilty is rendered, and we maintain that there has been no such evidence. (The attorney then read from the law defining an accessory to a crime.)

Frank Todd, a witness for the prosecution, told you that Frank Nunes said to him that he had shot his father because the father was armed with a shotgun and seemed about to shoot. The testimony of Grace Nunes was even and clear and could not have been fixed up for the occasion. A drilled witness always falls down. The prosecution did not attack this testimony because it was so clear and so unflatteringly given."

"Frank Nunes did not visit his father because he was in jail. The nurses and physicians told you that at the hospital the attendant did not want people to see the sick father. Doctors have told you that Tony Nunes died from pneumonia and the evidence shows he was recovering from the effect of the wound until he kicked the covers off and caught cold. There was no motive for the alleged conspiracy because Mrs. Nunes already owned the farm and had managed it for years. Self defense is a proper defense. The law gives a man full right to shoot even his father to protect his own life. One crime instantly brings on another and Tony Ornellas had been reading of the Woodson tragedy. When there is a suicide you usually read of another in a few days. It is the law of the Nunes house as a peace maker and he had several times that day made peace. Tony Nunes, violent in his language and fired with liquor sowed to the wind and reaped a whirlwind. In settling this case do not go outside the evidence in making your finding."

William N. Hargrove closed the argument for the defense and said in part: "The evidence is that Tony Nunes had a jug of whiskey and had been drinking. He had followed his son around with a gun. True, there had been no special trouble, just simply a quarrelsome, drunken man, going around with a gun. Didn't Charles Nunes have the best reason in the world for seeking a warrant for his father? Yet the state would have you believe that this was a conspiracy and that Charles Nunes was part of it. The state did not put Dr. Day on the stand because they knew what Dr. Day said he had heard and seen at the Nunes home. The alleged statement made by Tony Nunes the day before he died is not proper evidence. William Nunes was there with Sam and you will note they did not put him on the stand. I insisted on putting on Frank Nunes because I believe that a witness who is not even very smart can tell the truth and stick to it and make a good impression. Jacob Ornellas went on the stand and did not make a good witness because he seemed to have the lock jaw and could not get the story out. What he did say accorded with the facts as related by the other witnesses. Tony Nunes was drunk and quarrelsome and had declared he would kill the members of the family. Mrs. Nunes telephoned for her brother to come and help quiet Tony and nothing could be more natural. There was more quarreling about a settlement for hay. He knocked his son down. Charles Nunes went to town and secured a warrant for the arrest of his father."

"Meanwhile the father went away and came back hours later and asked for Charles and when someone said he was home Tony Nunes said, 'No he isn't for I have been there.' Tony Nunes took a drink and got his gun. Mrs. Nunes called out that Tony had put a shell in the gun. Tony Nunes knocked or shoved her down and said about Frank Nunes, 'He will kill me or I will kill him.' Frank D. Nunes shot because he believed he was in danger of his life. We must not consider that it is an unfortunate thing for a man to shoot his father. In this case the father was not entitled to consideration of relationship for he was armed and gave evidence of his intention to shoot. Frank Nunes was justified in his actions by the facts. I am discussing about Frank's culpability only for there is no evidence to show any part that Jacob Ornellas and Mrs. Nunes took part in any plot."

The insurance policy mentioned was in effect 25 years and if there was a desire to get the money they took a long time to decide to collect it. When Tony was shot we find that his wife called the doctor and the neighbors and gave the injured husband all the aid possible. Frank Nunes in shooting followed the first law of nature in trying to protect himself. Jake Ornellas may have told Frank Nunes to protect himself but if so he only spoke the law. The result is bad but can you say to this poor boy you must go to the penitentiary because you followed the law of nature in trying to protect yourself. If Tony Nunes had not contracted pneumonia he would not have died. The weakened condition from the wound may have helped develop the pneumonia. It is also true that the fact Tony Nunes was given to excessive of liquor also put his system into a condition where the disease germs multiplied rapidly."

"Tony Nunes was a big strong man and pneumonia always plays havoc with such men. The story of this simple minded lad is worth all possible weight because it is the simple truth. This boy was not actuated by anything that Mrs. Nunes or Jake Ornellas said but by some instinct of self protection. I believe if this boy had not shot that night you would have been here today trying a drink crazed quarrelsome father for the murder of his son and possibly for the murder of his whole family. This may be an awful thing but that would have been far worse. In this case I have presented the facts as I have found them. When a man with a case comes to my office I take it and play the hand that he supplies me. I am not in the business of manufacturing evidence and these witnesses have told the facts as they knew them."

Mr. Smith Closed Defense.

T. F. Smith in closing for the defense said in part "Shall we say that because poor old Tony Nunes drank that justice must not be done. Must we ignore the indictment in this case returned of your fellow citizens made up the Morgan county grand jury. Frank Nunes may not be one of the highest mentality but he is amenable to the law just the same. Tony Nunes in his dying declaration said that he was not armed on the day of the shooting. There may have been a motive in the fact that these defendants did not turn over the gun pin and the shell when the rest of the gun was given over. (The attorney then read the law relating to self defense). Tony Nunes could have lived a year after he was shot and still if it be proven that death was due to the gun shot wound, someone could have been held liable. For self defense the law says that there must be real evidence of the danger of the man who strikes in self defense. If Frank Nunes did not want to shoot his father why did he not go on up stairs where his brother Tony had gone instead of stopping on the stairs and firing. If he had any real filial feeling for the father he would have avoided this shooting and fled to a place of safety. The story of the killing does not show any great and urgent necessity for this act of Frank Nunes. The burden of the argument of the defense is that Tony Nunes was drunk and quarrelsome and that he wanted to kill somebody. If he had murder in his heart why did he not keep his gun some place other than in a trunk. If Tony Nunes wanted to kill somebody what kept him from doing it? There was every chance if there was any blood-thirsty spirit about him. If this mother and boy loved Tony Nunes; if Jake Ornellas was a peacemaker, why weeks before did they tie Tony Nunes to his bed for hours. Tony Nunes has been defamed as few dead men are. They have accredited him with profanity and curses against his family and with threats against the sheriff. Under the law you can find all of these defendants guilty or innocent and you can find anyone of them guilty. I adjure you to consider all the facts and evidence in the case and to render your verdict in such manner as you deem lawful and proper in the discharge of your duty, doing justice to the living and the dead and to society."

Mr. Smith completed his speech at 5:25 and court then adjourned until 7:30 when Judge Jones rendered his instructions to the jury and they retired.

EDUCATIONAL NOTES.

A kindergarten pilgrimage to Japan in 1915, in connection with the Panama Pacific exposition, is under consideration by members of the International Kindergarten union.

Telling the people through newspapers and in other ways of the 160 or more species of birds to be found in their home town is the task which the Sioux City Bird club has set itself.

American physicians who think of practicing medicine in Egypt are warned through consular advice that the Khedive's government henceforth requires a license; and licenses will be granted only to graduates of recognized colleges.

A playground institute has been organized in Cleveland, Ohio, to train workers for the local playground and recreation centers. Dr. A. E. Peterson, director of the department of hygiene in the public schools, inaugurated the work.

Five in every ten children observed outside of the school hours in the average city are loafing—doing nothing at all because, as they say, "There is nothing to do," according to Arthur C. Moses of the Washington Playground association.

By substituting plenty of good social opportunities at the school and meeting the pupils half way, the school authorities succeeded in getting the students at the West Chester, Pa., high school to give up voluntarily the secret societies in the school.

They believe in "class athletics" at Tacoma, Wash., the kind where all the members of a class take part. For the boys the contest is kicking the football; for the girls the event is throwing the basketball for distance. In 113 classes the entire membership without exception took part; and even in the upper four grades, where no effort was made to organize all the classes, 65 per cent of the pupils participated.

Kindergartens for colored children are being adopted in different parts of the south as one of the agencies for improving social conditions that have troubled two generations. Richmond, Va., has just opened an experimental kindergarten which has already created such interest among negro parents and the school authorities that it is expected it will soon become permanent. The Richmond kindergarten was opened by the National Kindergarten association of New York at the request of Richmond people who knew of the success of the demonstration given among the colored children of Chattanooga, Tenn., where the local association assumed the care and support of the school on March 1st. The south have also been inaugurated by the association and later carried on locally.

We Moralists

By WALT MASON.

We like to regulate our neighbors, and mark for them the way; we would prescribe their fun and labors, their penalties and pay. We always have a text to back us, whatever stand we take; and moral doubts can never rack us, or make our conscience ache. For we are all so strictly pious, and free from spots and mire, that even the angels can't deny us the halos we desire. And since we have no streak of yellow—that much is understood—of course we chase the other fellow and try to make him good. We don't resort to mortal sin, or methods mild like that; we give him lead severe abrasion, and try to break a slat. We show the road that you should travel, and if you halt or fail, we slug you with a chunk of gravel, and send you off to jail. We're bound to make this sad world better, and life a joyous hallel, even though we have to place a fetter on every human limb. In olden times the pious hermit was satisfied to train his spirit, or whatever you term it, in solitude and pain; but now the good man ups and hollers, and makes a mighty noise, and wants to put his chains and collars on all the other boys. And if this fable I am handing seems to you Greek or Dutch, and fails to hit your understanding, I cannot help it much.

PERE MARQUETTE WILL SOON BE SOLD.
Detroit, Mich., June 4.—The Pere Marquette railroad receivers were informed by United States Judge Arthur J. Tuttle today that he "will probably order the issuance of $1,000,000 of receivers' certificates."

The court made this announcement during the hearing on the receivers' petition for their issuance of $7,000,000 in receivers' certificates to cover past obligations of the receivership and those about to be incurred. Judge Tuttle said he was convinced the sale of the road would pay all debts and very much more and that the sale must soon be made.

PRIMARIES EXPENSIVE.
Harrisburg, Pa., June 4.—Figures given by candidates in sworn statements show the recent state wide primaries to have been expensive for some of them. Vance McCormick successful candidate for the nomination for governor spent $33,274. Senator Boise Penrose, candidate for the nomination to succeed himself certifies to $12,867.

HANS WAGNER IS GREATEST IN GAME, SAYS BRESNAHAN.

Roger Bresnahan, formerly manager of the St. Louis Cardinals and now coaching the Cub pitchers, says that he believes Hans Wagner to be the greatest baseball player the game has ever seen. Ty Cobb, Nap Lajoie and Tris Speaker have all also been mentioned as deserving of this title at various times.

FARMER GIVES LIFE FOR CANINE

Charles B. Wilson Leaps From Boat
When Dog Sinks and is Drowned
Attempting to Save Animal.

Pittsburgh, Kan., June 4.—"Jack" was yellow and stubble-tailed and people called him a mongrel, but Charles B. Wilson, a farmer, loved him, and gave his life for him today.

Wilson was rowing in the river near here. The dog, which had been his constant companion for years, swam behind. Suddenly "Jack" tired and sank. Wilson leaped from the boat and was drowned attempting to save the animal. Wilson leaves a widow and two children.

SOME OFF-SIDE CHUTES.

To the turf follower the issue of the Sydney, Australia, Referee of April 8 is an interesting volume. A Journal friend permitted the writer to take a slant through its columns yesterday. The Referee is a sixteen page paper of seven columns, wide measure, and is chockfull of all kinds of sports from ping-pong up to two-and-one-half miles horse races. In the Downcaster Handicap there were not less than 165 entries, among which were colts and fillies whose sires and dams show long strains of the American thoroughbred. The entries also disclose the names of several well known Yankee trainers—handlers who were always in the spotlight during the good old days at Brighton Beach, Sheepshead Bay, Gravesend, Morris Park and Saratoga. "Matt" McGrath and "Jack" Scully are liberal nominators, while Packey Ryan is well represented. The old favorite American jockey, Musgrave, is there and is training a topnotch stable for a wealthy antipodan owner. In the bookmakers' line there are several names familiar to Americans who were wont to take a flyer with the knights of the high stool. Bookmaking is a legitimate calling in the land of the kangaroo, being licensed and protected by the government. Speculators also are protected, and such a thing as welching on a bet is unknown. Some bookmakers advertise their calling liberally and one in particular, between the lines, hints that he does not "dutch" his book; i. e., when he is loaded down on one horse's chances he does not boost the price on a rank outsider or on a weak second or third choice in order to make his sheet show a balance at the expense of the betting public. Reading this New South Wales sporting paper one is convinced that Australia is the haven the followers of the roo-goos have long been searching for.

The Feds are again working on Walter Johnson. Thursday he was in conference with the Wards, owners of the Brooklyn Hill Tops, who press dispatches state, have offered him $100,000 for a three year contract; $25,000 per year salary and $25,000 when he signs. Clark Griffith also admits that he held a five hours' fanning bee with Walter in an effort to have him sign a contract for five years at a big boost in salary. Johnson has turned down the Washington proposition, but will fulfill his contract with the Senators, after which, if they outbid the biscuit makers, he will continue with Washington.

Harry Lord has been in Chicago the past few days and on Thursday he was in conference with the Old Roman. He begged, pleaded and sued Comiskey for an unconditional release so that he might connect with a minor league club with which he has been offered a pecuniary interest. His request has been refused on the grounds that the boss of the South Side believes waivers could not be obtained. In an interview Lord admits that there is no chance of his returning to the White Sox. Comiskey is easy; but he will not tolerate a flopper.

Something went wrong with "advanced baseball" at the Sox park Thursday when Jim Scott was not prevented from winning against Cleveland, whom he "set" down with only one hit. His teammates grabbed five off Blanding for two runs. But twenty-seven men faced Death Valley Jim in the ninth round and only two of Birmingham's men lived to see the first corner—Jackson on a scratch hit, and Liebold on a pass.

The Federals have now invoked the law's aid via the injunction. Fred Blanding of the Naps has been summoned to appear before Judge Foell in Chicago Monday to show cause why he should not be "in-juncted."

Dick Wheeler, who has been in Springfield several days in the hope of connecting with the capital Three-Eyes team, this column has been informed, will return to Jacksonville. Wheeler delayed his trip too long, as when he reached Springfield Green, quite a handy third-corner man, had been signed. Wheeler is fast enough. In baseball brains he is the peer of any man in junior league, and if he were to exert himself there is a berth for him with that organization with a grand chance under careful handling for climbing higher. The local semi-pro. team is carrying two more players who are ripe, and who have been sappable at any time the last two seasons to tavel in fast company; in company that travels faster than the Three Eyes. They are Clark and Sims. Than the former there are very few better backstops at large. This young man with a short course of training under a veteran like Billy Sullivan of the White Sox under the watchful eye of Big Chief Myers or Larry McLean, would in a short spasm range up with any of them in the majors. Lack of confidence, backwardness and homesickness are the Jonahs which hold Buck Sims to the sand lots.

Resignations from the team and changes in the line-up of the British poloists now in this country are taking place daily. Almost an entire new team from the one originally selected will be seen in the championship match next Tuesday.

Coaches Select Officials.
Chicago, June 5.—Coaches and managers of football teams in the central states today listed and selected officials for next fall's games. The selections, however, were not announced and probably will be given out by each school.

Atlanta Golfer Qualifies.
Memphis, Tenn., June 5.—Perry Adair, golfer of Atlanta, qualified today for the finals for the southern golf championship by defeating George Rotan, Texas champion, by 5 up and 3 to play in 36 holes.

ILLINOIS IS FAVORITE IN CONFERENCE MEET

Three Orange and Blue Runners
Qualified for Quarter Mile Run in Chicago—Coach Gill Fails to List
Goelitz.

Chicago, June 5.—Illinois today qualified three men for the quarter mile run in the conference meet here tomorrow and remained favorite tonight on that account, despite the barring of Goelitz, one of her star relay team. Led by Sanders, the Illinois quarter milers seem sure of at least two places and the disqualification of Campbell, Leland Stanford's middle distance man, who was found to have competed for the Olympic Athletic club of San Francisco in a Pittsburgh meet some years ago, helped the chances of the Orange and Blue.

Preliminary heats were held only in the quarter, scratches reducing the field in the half mile to such an extent that it can be handled tomorrow. Eight men qualified in two heats, but the competition was not strong and the fast time expected was not made, he qualifiers "pulling up" when their places were assured.

Goelitz was disqualified because Coach Gill had neglected to list him among the Illinois entries, but it was said tonight he would run "under protest."

Colorado's quartet is generally believed to have the best chance in the relay should the ruling against Goelitz wreck the Illinois hopes. Henneson, Burke, Sanders and Hart or Tapping probably will compose the Illinois team.

A fast track and a firm turf are ready for the meet. The showers of late night and today were succeeded late today by bright sunshine and the inders and sod absorbed the dampness readily. Fair and warmer weather is expected tomorrow.

FEELS LIKE A NEW WOMAN

As Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Dispelled Backache, Headaches and Dizziness.

Piqua, Ohio.—"I would be very ungrateful if I failed to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound the praise it deserves, for I have taken it at different times and it always relieved me when other medicines failed, and when I hear a woman complain I always recommend it. Last winter I was attacked with a severe case of organic weakness. I had backache, pains in my hips and over my kidneys, headache, dizziness, lassitude, had no energy, limbs ached and I was always tired. I was hardly able to do my housework. I had taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound on one other occasion, and it had helped me so I took it again and it has built me up, until now I feel like a new woman. You have my hearty consent to use my name and testimonial in any way and I hope it will benefit suffering women."—Mrs. ORPHA TURNER, 431 S. Wayne St., Piqua, Ohio.

Women who are suffering from those distressing ills peculiar to their sex should not doubt the ability of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to restore their health.

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

A Hint for Coming Maternity

In a little book designed for expectant mothers more complete instruction is given in the use of "Mother's Friend." This is an external embrocation applied to the abdominal muscles for the purpose of reducing the strain on ligaments, cords and tendons.
In thus bringing relief and avoiding pain great good is accomplished. It serves to ease the mind, indirectly has a beneficial effect upon the nervous system and thousands of women have delightedly told how they were free of nausea, had no morning sickness and went through the ordeal with most remarkable success. "Mother's Friend" has been growing in popular favor for more than forty years. In almost every community are grandmothers who used it themselves, their daughters have used it and they certainly must know what a blessing it is when they recommend it so warmly.
It is certainly a most helpful influence for its effect in avoiding all unnecessary pain, enabling the muscles to expand gently and to relax naturally when baby arrives. Strictly an external application it has no other effect than to ease the muscles, cords, tendons and ligaments involved hence is perfectly safe to use by all women. It is used very successfully to prevent caking of breasts.
"Mother's Friend" is prepared in the laboratory of Bradfield Regulator Co., 504 Lamar Bldg., Atlanta, Ga.
It should be remembered that what is said of "Mother's Friend" is the thought expressed by the thousands of women who have successfully used it and recommended it through two generations.

STATE ENTOMOLOGIST TELLS HOW TO COMBAT ARMY WORM

Poisoned Mash is Counted an Aid in Killing Pest—Drugging With a Log if Diligently Done is Effective.

The Journal recently wrote the University of Illinois for any information available concerning the army worm and the following answer was received yesterday.

Sow broadcast in the infested fields a rather dry bran mash poisoned with paris green. For this purpose mix together clean bran (containing little or no shorts) and paris green at the rate of a pound of poison to 16 pounds of dry bran, shoveling back and forth until the mixture is complete and equal. Then moisten this with water in which a quart of salt has been dissolved for each 10 gallons of water, mixing again with shovels. The mash should not be so soft as to be sloppy, but should crumble in the hands, so that when sown broadcast it will scatter in small lumps. Sixteen pounds of bran will make mash enough to treat in this way an acre of ground.

If the army-worms have begun to move, this poisoned mash should be sown more thickly in a broad belt in front of them, to make sure that they can get their dose without having to travel far for it.
If paris green can not be obtained, arsenate of lead may be substituted for it. This comes either in dry powder or as a paste. If the dry powder is used, four pounds of it will be needed instead of one pound of paris green. If the paste is used, eight pounds will be needed, and this, instead of being mixed with the dry bran, should first be stirred up in some of the water with which the bran is moistened.
We have had ample opportunity to try this operation on a large scale, and have found it very effective in every case. Recent experiments have shown us that, although army-worms will eat the poisoned bran mash greedily as long as it is moist, they may neglect it when it is dry. It is best, consequently, that it should be sown in the evening shortly before sun-down. This is especially desirable because the army-worm is active at night and tends to hide in the day time.

Stephen A. Forbes,
Illinois State Entomologist,
Urbana, Illinois, June 3, 1914.
To this I have only to add that the usual farmer's method of ditching or plowing and dragging a log to make a dusty furrow as a protection to fields likely to be entered by army-worms from adjacent fields, is very effective when diligently followed. The poisoning method is intended primarily to kill the worms on the spot, and especially to dispose of those which may have entered the crop field through failure of the owner to protect it by mechanical means.

S. A. Forbes.

Crushed Bow of Storstad and Some Of the Coffins of the Victims.

Photos copyright, 1914, by American Press Association.

The British and Canadian governments took prompt action after the Empress of Ireland disaster on the St. Lawrence river, in which nearly 1,000 souls lost their lives and about 400 were rescued. A court of inquiry consisting of three members was appointed to begin sittings on June 9. It was planned to hear as many of the survivors as possible and to try to fix the blame. The upper picture shows the crushed bow of the collier Storstad, which rammed and sank the Empress. The lower picture shows coffins of victims being carried from the government boat Lady Grey to the wharf at Quebec after being brought from Rimouski.

RAILROAD NOTES.

Fletcher Fanning, clerk in the Washburn freight office is sick.
The engine pulling the St. Louis accommodation on the Chicago & Alton road is now sent to the C. P. & St. L. shops at night for attention instead of having a hostler employed by the company. In this manner if any small thing is wrong with the machinery it may be fixed without being sent to Bloomington or Roadhouse.

Summer tourists rates are now issued by the roads leading to the Pacific coast. The regular rate to San Francisco and Los Angeles is $70.85 round trip first class, privilege of going one way and returning another.
In the Chicago & Alton freight warehouse a special office is being partitioned off for the foreman.
There is talk of a special train from Beardstown to Waverly and return Sunday on account of the dedication of the Roman Catholic church there. The matter is not yet definitely decided.

Baggage men on the roads are catching it right lively these days as students are leaving and pupils from the state schools. A huge pile of trunks goes out almost every day.

At the Car Shops.
There are now six tenders in the round house awaiting disposition of the engines to which they respectively belong.

Switch engines Nos. 5 and 7 are ready for business and are being held in readiness for orders.

Engine No. 59 is in the shops for minor repairs.

Some vile miscreant had the meanness to shoot the collie dog belonging to Mike Schneider of the round house. Any man who would do as low down a thing deserves punishment.

Engine No. 32 has been put in shape and sent out for duty.

John Jenkinson of the machine shop is sick.

E. J. McGinnis of the machine shop has gone to Detroit for a visit of a few days.

The latest invention in powerful locomotives is one with three sets of cylinders, two sets under the boiler and one under the tender. Each set of cylinders has six drivers making eighteen drivers for the engine which is said to be even better than the famous Mallet machine.

Considerable work is now being done on passenger and freight cars of the road to enable them to conform to the safety law of the national government. The steps and brake apparatus must be made in a certain way and the grab irons on the freight cars must be of a certain pattern and style in order to conform to the law and it is making a lot of work.

Dan Mahoney, helper to Charley Pites in the blacksmith shop, has gone to Leavenworth, Kansas, to bring back his sister who has been there for some time.

Frank DeFrates, helper in the blacksmith shop is taking a short lay off to spray his fruit of which he has considerable.

Lester Hill, helper for James Dickens in the blacksmith shop is laying off on account of the serious illness of his wife.

William Quinlan of the machine shop, Clay Corbridge, Peter Meder of the blacksmith shop and John Douke of the tin shop all went off several days on a fishing trip extraordinary. One of the number was sick while away and the rest fished hard and failed to catch anything worth while and had it not been for Mr. Runkel, the grocer, man who is an expert angler it would have gone hard with the rest when it came dinner time.

Cleveland Runkel of the machine shop has resigned and gone to Madison, Ill.

Cyril, son of the efficient blacksmith shop foreman, William Sauer, has returned home after sustaining a severe surgical operation, which his father is delighted to report was a complete success.

Thomas Heaton, Moses Topping, foreman in the carpenter shop, Charles Cobb and William Sauer, foreman of the blacksmith shop all went fishing recently. They tramped thirty miles and used every effort to tempt the fish from the water but failed almost entirely.

W. L. Tiedale has been added to the labor gang.

A. C. Frank and Mike Schneider recently went to Wolfe lake fishing but report poor luck.

Byron Kindred has been employed as mill helper.

William Sperry has been hired as boiler maker helper.

Albert Stringham has added to the force as machine shop helper.

William Henderson, mill laborer has resigned to go to California on account of his wife's health.

Passenger coach No. 46 is looking superb and will soon be ready for service.

Combination baggage, mail and express car No. 34 is about ready to go out and is fine.

How I Produced 12 Pounds of Beef From One Bushel of Corn.

I bought 44 cattle through Milton Marshall & Co., St. Louis, of Henry Wright, they averaged 961 pounds, March 19, 1914 in St. Louis. I put them in dry lots March 27th, fed them all they would clean up in 30 minutes, crushed corn, cob and all then cooked in the 50 bushel size Wood's Grain Softener.

I put them on grass May 25th, they averaged 1200 lbs. when put on grass. While in dry lot I gave each steer 5 lbs. clover hay. After they ate their grain, I kept oat straw before them all the time, but they would not eat over one bale of straw per day. I fed at 6 a. m. and 6 p. m., at regular hours.

I measured the grain fed with a No. 8 scoop, feeding 50 scoops at each feed or 100 scoops per day, all they would clean up. I put in 20 bushels ground cob corn and all into a 50 bushel vat. This will fill it making 50 bushels feed, which makes 4 feeds, all they will clean up. I drew 50 gallons of syrup off and added 50 gallons of water, then added 1 1/2 bushels of ground oats and shorts, with which I a feeding 80 pigs that are doing well.

I will feed the cattle about 30 days longer and would be glad to have any one interested come and see them.

SOIL BUILDING NECESSARY WORK

WE MUST PLAN TO MAKE GOOD
WHAT WE USE UP.

Deeper Plowing Will Make a Beginning in the Right Direction—Application of Humus will Unlock Nature's Store House of Mineral Plant Food.

We must be soil builders today. Think not that soil building is something already finished. The basis of profitable farming is a productive soil. As we are sure to lose some of our soil, we must plan to add some to take its place. And nature's plan for building soil should be our plan. Nature built soil by growing legumes and grasses side by side, returning the dead vegetation to the earth and mixing it with the remains of the rocks after the agencies of wind, weather, water, etc., had acted upon these rocks since the dawn of creation. This is the way we must build our soils today.

First of all we must plow deeper in order that we may draw on nature's supply of plant food that she has stored in the subsoil. We know there is plant food, therefore we have seen plants growing on clay taken from the bottom of a well, after this clay had weathered a few years. But this plant food brought up from the subsoil cannot be used by the crops until it is changed to a form that is soluble in the water of the soil. So we must plan to unlock this store of plant food. We do this by adding humus to the soil. Humus benefits the soil in this way, and it also benefits it in many other ways. In fact, when we tell the story of humus in its relation to soil fertility, we have but a few chapters left to talk about.

Benefits of Humus.

1. Humus unlocks nature's store of mineral plant food. Plants, as we know, receive part of their plant food from the soil. This plant food must be in a certain form before it can be taken up by the plants. Some one has said that plants get their food from the soil in the form of soup. In other words, the mineral plant food in the soil must be dissolved in the water of the soil and then absorbed in this form by the roots of the plants. Of what use is a large supply of plant food in the soil if it is locked up in such shape that the crops cannot use it? We must have not only a sufficient supply of all the elements of plant food needed, but we must have this supply in such form that the crops can use it. We look around us and see the so-called "worn out" farms on every side. But they are not worn out. There is enough plant food there to produce wonderful crops, but it is locked up in nature's storehouse. The crops cannot use it in its present form. Nature, in her wisdom, adopted this plan to prevent us from robbing the soil of its last pound of plant food. We can gradually deplete the soil of its fertility until it will no longer produce a profitable crop, but we cannot take all of the plant food out at once. If we could, we would have an enormous number of farms that really would be "worn out." If nature locked up this store of plant food, we should use nature's key to unlock it.

We should add humus to our soil. Why? Because when humus decays in the soil, it forms a chemical substance known as acid. This acid acts upon the unavailable plant food of the soil, changing it to a form which is soluble in the water of the soil. In this form it can be taken up by the roots of the growing crops and used as food. The secret of making a soil productive hinges on this point. So it is one of the most important principles of soil fertility—one that we should thoroughly understand.

2. Humus adds plant food to the soil. Especially is this true when the legumes or nitrogen gathering crops are grown. Nature stored the supply of phosphorus and potassium in the minerals of the soil, but she stored the supply of nitrogen in the air. The soil has often been likened unto a bank from which we can draw wealth, but few of us regard the air as a bank. But it is a bank and a never failing one. Check as you please, you cannot overdraw. Above every acre of land is a fortune of $10,000,000 in the shape of plant food—nitrogen. But there is only one way to check on this supply of nitrogen—by growing legume crops. These crops, clover, alfalfa, soy beans, cowpeas, etc., have the power to take nitrogen from the air, not because they are good rustlers themselves, but because they form a wise partnership with another plant, a very, very small one known as bacteria. These bacteria, growing in the little swellings on the roots of the legumes, extract nitrogen from the air and store it in their bodies. When they die the legume crop appropriates this nitrogen and uses it for food. If you so choose you can buy this nitrogen, paying 15 cents a pound, or even 50 cents, if you are especially inclined to want to help fatten the pocketbook of the fertilizer manufacturer. If you are following farming as a business, not as a pastime, you will not want to pay 50 cents a pound for nitrogen or even 15 cents. You will want to get it as cheaply as possible. You will want to copy nature's plan and get it from nature's storehouse for nothing. How strange it is, with this unlimited supply of nitrogen at hand, literally as free as the air, that we should allow crops to starve for the want of it. Unless we use this nitrogen of the air, we are not making use of the talents the Lord gave us. Sooner or later the time is sure to come when, like the prodigal son, we will be reduced to the point where we faint would eat of the husks. It seems to be the history of farming that we must be brought down to this level before we will realize the worth of the fertility of the soil. When necessity points the way, we follow a better system of farming.—Missouri State Board of Agriculture Bulletin.

MEASURING FERTILITY BY THE YIELD OF CROPS

Longer Land Is Farmed the Richer It Gets If the Right Methods are Employed.

(By G. F. Warren in Cornell Experiment Station Bulletin 341).

Why are crop yields increasing? The writer does not believe that changes in crop yields can be taken as a measure of soil fertility. If so, then we must conclude that the longer land is farmed the richer it gets, because the Atlantic coast states show the largest increase in crop yields. The striking increase is due to the better returns that crops now bring. Every farmer knows many ways of increasing his crops. Whenever prices rise, more fertilizers and better methods are used. In the states east of the Mississippi river, in 1893, the average expenditure for fertilizer was 36 cents per acre of crops. In 1909 it was 78 cents. Probably much more important than the expenditure for fertilizer is the increased attention that is being given to the care and use of farm manure. Methods of tillage also have been improved. Much land has been drained, so that wet spots which once lowered the average yield are now raising it.

It is certainly very unsafe to draw conclusions from crop yields as to whether our soils are running out. The yields are increasing, whatever the cause.

Crop Possibilities.—There are many ways in which it is possible to increase crops. There is much good land that is not now being used, but that will be used as soon as prices make it worth while. The use of more fertilizers, the better use of manure, and other methods of more careful farming are rapidly coming in as prices make it worth while. There are millions of acres of good farming land in swamps, which we will farm as soon as we are convinced that it will pay to drain them. Shaler estimates that there are 3,000,000 acres of reclaimable sea-coast marshland along the Atlantic coast of the United States.

There are other millions of acres of farms, made up of smaller areas of fractions of acres to large tracts, which are gradually being reclaimed. On the vast majority of American farms there are areas of land that can be brought into cultivation when prices warrant the work. In total, this is far more important than reclaiming the large swamps.

The writer made a study of 13 farms, containing 1060 acres, near Ithaca. On these farms nearly 210 acres of land are still in woods or stumps that will make excellent farm land when cleared. This land is just as good as any of the present cleared land. This is in addition to woodland that must be kept permanently in woods. During the past three years, on these farms, 17 acres of previously waste wet land and 63 acres of woodland have been turned into pasture, and 44 acres of pasture land and 7 acres of previously waste land have been taken for crops. This example is typical of the state. Probably more brush lines along fences and wet places have been reclaimed in New York in the last five years than in the preceding 25 years. Prices in New York are usually not high enough to justify one in clearing land all at once, but woodland and brushland can be turned into pasture and be ready to clear cheaply in about five years, after the stumps have partly rotted. In this way the saving in cost of clearing may equal the value as pasture and the two usually pay better than clearing at once by expensive methods.

The above conditions are typical not only of New York, but also of most of the farms in the eastern states. At the same time there is much land that is not worth farming that should be reforested, but not much of this is in crops at the present time.

SOME REASONS FOR THE GROWING OF ALFALFA

Great Hay Crop and Costs Less Than Grain—Premiums Offered for the Best Orchard Spraying.

It is the best hay crop. Less work required to produce it than grain.

It is a dependable crop. It improves the mechanical condition of the soil.

It adds nitrogen to the soil, provided it is fed on the farm. More food nutrients can be produced from an acre with alfalfa than with any other hay crop at present. Two tons of alfalfa hay can be produced on an acre, and it contains as much food value as 110 bushels of oats.

This does not mean that it can entirely take the place of oats or other feeds. With horses it can replace oats to a considerable extent, depending on the other food fed and

MAKING A SUCCESS IN SHEEP RAISING

MUCH DEPENDS ON MAKING THE LAMBS GROW FROM START.

Two Ways of Feeding Lambs Bring Good Results—Succulents Important in Ration of the Ewes—Salt and Good Water Should Always Be Available.

(By W. C. Coffey, Sheep Industry, University of Illinois).

Successful and profitable lamb growing depends chiefly upon being able to keep the lamb growing from the start. If the lamb is strong and hearty at birth and if it is given the kind of feed it can handle, it begins to make gains at once. One should remember that the younger the lamb is the greater will be its rate of gain and, other things being equal, the cheaper will be the gain. Therefore, the grower who would raise his lambs economically had better see up of several feeds rather than one of concentrate and one roughage, because variety stimulates appetite and assists in keeping the body in good thrift. She should have a ration fairly rich in protein, for sheep milk is rich in nitrogenous substances and in fat. Some succulent feed as roots, silage or pasture should be a part of the ration for the sake of the influence on the amount of milk produced and also for the toning and regulating effect these feeds have on the body. We of the corn belt are disposed to overlook the importance of succulents in the rations of ewes that are nursing lambs. In this, English and Canadian sheepmen surpass us. We have relied too much on grain and on fields whose plant growth early in the spring is of questionable value. Now that silage is coming into more general use we should be able to compound a better ration than formerly.

Immediately after lambing the concentrate part of the ewe's ration should be light in nature and small in quantity. Wheat bran is one of the very best concentrates to begin with. After feeding it for a day or two oats can be added and in about a week corn and oil meal can be introduced. Not all of these concen-to it that they are well fed dearly in life.

There are two ways of feeding lambs and both should be employed. One way is to feed them indirectly through the ewes and the other directly by giving them such feeds as grain and hay as soon as they are able to take them.

In considering the indirect way of feeding lambs one should remember that while the ewe is producing milk she is also growing wool and maintaining her body. In view of heavy demands made on her, the necessity of liberally supplying her with feeds of good quality is evident. Even though well fed she will lose in weight if she is a good suckler. If possible, her ration should be made trates are absolutely necessary in the ration. Whether or not they are to be used should be determined by their cost and by the nature of the succulent feeds and roughages available.

The best roughages are leguminous hays, such as clover, alfalfa, cowpeas and soy bean hay. It is unnecessary to state that hay should be sweet and clean, since every one knows that damaged hay is likely to lead to digestive troubles both in the ewes and in the lambs.

Just how much should be fed to suckling ewes depends upon so many variable factors that the owner must make a special study of his flock after the lambs are born. For example if the lambs are born early, say in the work being done. With cattle and sheep it can very largely replace grain feeds. It can also be fed to swine with good results.

Time to Sow.—Sow in the latter part of May or June. The alfalfa plant when first starting likes warm weather. This also gives more chance to germinate and kill the weeds, previous to sowing—Agricultural College Press Bulletin, North Dakota.

Prizes for Best Sprayed Orchards.

The Illinois State Horticultural society is this year offering premiums of $30 and $20 for the first and second best sprayed orchards, respectively. A search of the three northern central and southern districts of Illinois. The executive board hopes also to be able to offer a trophy cup or medal as the sweepstakes premium and it may be possible to offer the sweepstakes award yet this year.

All entries must be in the hands of the secretary not later than July 1, 1914, and all competitors must be members of the Illinois State Horticultural society, become members prior to making entry. Each contestant shall furnish to the secretary, A. M. Augustine, Normal, Ill., at the time of entry, a complete description of the orchard, and acres entered, with a legal or sufficient description to enable the judges to determine without question the exact tract entered. No change will be allowed after the entry is made.

No variety of apples shall be entered which will be harvested before August 15th. All competitors must furnish the awarding committee with a complete record of the number of spray applications made, together with formulas used, and date of each spraying. Any orchard entered shall consist of not less than ten acres and must be in a solid block. Any orchard entered must be not less than nine years of age.

WHITE PINE FOREST SHOULD BE IN RESERVE

NATURAL TIMBER SHOULD BE PROTECTED BY STATE.

A. W. Breyton of Mt. Morris, Ill., Tells Why Government Ought to Purchase and Maintain Forest Tracts—Necessary for Preservation of Tillable Area—Scenic Beauty Should Be Kept.

(Abstract of Address at University of Illinois).

Two reasons stand out prominently why the state should purchase and maintain forest tracts, and especially those of great scenic beauty. The first reason is that the wooded lands of the state are being rapidly denuded of their timber. Thousands of acres have already been stripped and hundreds more are being annually cut off and converted into tilled fields or treeless pastures. In a few years more, if nothing is done to counteract this regrettable tendency, we will drift into the same condition now so apparent in many parts of the world, where the forests have all disappeared and as a result erosion of the hillsides, washing away of the fertility, drying up of the rivers and creeks at one season of the year and flooding of lands at another season prevail, rendering unsightly the landscape and causing untold financial loss and physical suffering.

Scientists tell us, and it seems eminently reasonable, that there is a certain balance between the treeless tracts and the wooded lands which best fits a country for human habitation. If forests are too extensive, so as to exclude the beneficial influence of the sun and hold in check the free circulation of life giving air, man will not properly mature, either in mind or body, as is evidenced by the dwellers in central Africa and all other densely wooded districts of the world. On the other hand the desert wastes, the treeless tracts of China, Australia and other portions of the globe are not conducive to and do not produce men remarkable for their mental and physical vigor. Only such countries as have a fair proportion of prairie and wooded lands develop the high type of mankind. This points the way we should follow. We had in Illinois just such an ideal country, a nicely balanced proportion of prairie and timbered lands. But this proportion is being rapidly disturbed. Individuals cannot be depended upon to stay the process. There are too many conflicting interests. Ignorance, cupidity and necessity move them along to their own ultimate financial and physical loss. The time has come when the state will have to step in and repair or stay the damage being done. This it can do by purchasing more wooded tracts remaining and also by establishing schools of forestry and forestry experimental stations. This will have to be done soon. Other states are doing it now; Why should not Illinois do the same? These tracts can be purchased now at a reasonable price. But they are rapidly advancing. To delay means additional cost. If these tracts are not purchased the time will soon come when the state will have to enter upon a campaign of tree planting and culture which will be an expensive and long drawn out process.

The second reason why the state should purchase and maintain some of these tracts is because the people want and need them. They want them as pleasure resorts, places to which they can go for social gatherings and outdoor amusements. The universal use of the automobile has rendered such places more of a necessity than ever before. The automobile makes possible excursions not thought of a few years ago. Again the improved roads now being pushed out in every direction invite travel and the only thing lacking is an objective point. Give the people a beautiful and wholesome tract of forest and streams and they will flock to it like birds to a sunny cline. Not only from points in our own state, but from neighboring states, bringing money and prosperity with them. A practical demonstration of this is to be seen in the results of the purchase and opening as a state park of the Starved Rock "keep" near Ottawa. Seventy-five thousand people visited this park the first year it was managed by the state, whereas the number of visitors had never exceeded 25,000 any previous year. As high as 500 automobiles were on the grounds at once. They want these parks also as counter attractions to the amusements of the city and town. The young people must and will have places to which they can go for amusements. If they cannot be found in the country they will go to the city.

Formerly, the country and village people had the open country in which to hold their social gatherings, but this is no longer true; on every hand we see signs, "no trespassing," "keep out," "no picnicking," etc. There are no open places now but the long dusty highways that lead to the city or town and its resorts.

Again the people used them as object lessons in beautifying and adorning home surroundings. Such places awaken the dormant instinct possessed by every human individual, the love of the flowers and shrubs and trees and urge them on to their acquisition.

They are centers of infection, inoculating the most indifferent with the virus which stimulates and leads to the planting of trees and vines and as a consequence a higher plane of living. Further, they need them as aids to the promotion of their physical, intellectual and moral well being.

LIMESTONE QUESTION STILL OF ABSORBING INTEREST

Dr. Hopkins Tells Why Soils Need the Application of Ground Limestone—Areas in South Need It Particularly.

Doctor Cyril G. Hopkins, who has been with the southern settlement and development organization during the year as director of agriculture, has just issued a circular entitled "Ground Limestone for Southern Soils."

Dr. Hopkins states as his opinion, based up on his own investigations, that "Southern farm soils are almost invariably sour, or acid." He recommends the use of ground limestone to counteract the acidity. He supports his contention that it is best to use ground limestone, by quoting authorities in the experiment stations of the southern states, such as the Maryland, the Pennsylvania, the Tennessee and Alabama investigations.

A farm paper of Philadelphia in an editorial professes to believe Dr. Hopkins does not know what he is talking about, that to advise the farmers of the southern states to use 50,000,000 tons a year of ground limestone is really absurd.

Farmers of Illinois are familiar enough with the acid conditions of soils to believe that Doctor Hopkins is entirely right.

Following are few paragraphs by Dr. Hopkins in this circular, with the caption, Farm Truth No. 1.

Limestone and Legumes.

With liberal applications of limestone and phosphorus or potassium added if needed, most southern soils can be made to produce abundant crops of such biennial or perennial legumes as red clover, alsike clover, sweet clover (mellilotus) and alfalfa; and these when infected with the proper bacteria have direct access, almost twelve months in the year, to the inexhaustible supply of nitrogen in the air. The biennial and perennial legumes store up very much more nitrogen, organic matter in their roots than do the annual plants, such as cowpeas, and one seeding (sometimes with a nurse crop and with no extra preparation of the seed bed) may provide a legume crop to occupy the land for from two years to five years or more.

The deep rooting legumes are the "best subsoilers," and in many ways they are the best soil improving crops. Furthermore, they are splendid pasture crops, and if not cropped too closely (a bad practice for any pasture) they will furnish grazing from early spring till early winter. These are among the most valuable crops in profitable live stock farming; and nothing is needed more for the development of live stock in the south. Moreover, clover and alfalfa are the best crops to precede corn, as is well known by every corn belt farmer.

Limestone and legumes must constitute the foundation for corn and cattle in the south.

Uses of Lime.

Ordinary limestone serves two very important purposes in soil improvement. One is to correct the acidity of sour soils, and the other is to supply the element calcium as plant food; and in most soils calcium is much more deficient than potassium, and even more deficient than phosphorus in many soils. Dolomite not only corrects soil acidity and supplies calcium, but it also supplies magnesium, another essential element of plant food, the supply of which is very limited in some soils. Dolomite has even greater power than the more common limestone in correcting acidity. 184 pounds of dolomite being equivalent to 200 of calcium carbonate.

In pure form 56 pounds of quicklime or 74 pounds of hydrated lime would have the same power to correct soil acidity as 92 pounds of dolomite or 100 pounds of ordinary limestone. In other words, with ground limestone at $1.00 a ton or ground dolomite at $1.02 the hydrated lime would be worth $1.35, and the quicklime $1.79 per ton, except for one other very important fact; and this fact is that caustic lime is caustic.

Loss From Insects, Totalling Millions Per Annum, Would Be More Easily Preventable With All Horticulturists Combining for Their extermination.

The organization of the processes of civilization goes on from stage to stage; and the progressive man—the progressive community will keep step with this progressive development of civilized life. The present spirit of the State Horticultural society progressive spirit; and the time seems opportune to point out anew some of the losses which horticulture has been suffering in this state, and some of the dangers now threatening (through defects and deficiencies of organization in that contest with insects which we must wage perpetually for the protection and enjoyment of the fruits of our labors and the income from our investments. The old rule, "Every one for himself, and the sheriff take the hindmost," belongs to the pioneer stage of horticulture; and the present generation must substitute for that barbaric creed the community principle—social rule—"Each for all and all for each."

It is not a sentimental principle merely; it is the inevitable rule of enlightened self interest also; and we are led to it, or driven to it by good sense as well as by good will, by business policy as well as by loyalty to the community. In fact, we are not at a point where progress is obstructed and the way to prosperity is barred by a deficiency of community spirit in the community; by the lack of a common and dependable willingness of each to do the right thing where the interest of his neighbor is concerned. A good neighbor makes good neighbors, and good neighbors around him may make a good neighbor out of an indifferent one, but a very few persistent bad neighbors may unsettle and paralyze the good will of a whole community.

This is a well-known and popular doctrine with the members of this society, or you would not be here. It is not so well recognized or so popular with fruit growers who do not attend our meetings, or we should not have as much difficulty as we do in getting owners of dangerous orchards either to spray their trees effectively or to cut them down, or some owners of infected nurseries to make their stock absolutely safe before sending it out, or occupants of dangerously infested town premises to unite for the suppression of pests which, if allowed to spread unchecked, will make life less desirable and residence property less valuable in their home towns.

When an invasion looms, that of the San Jose scale now in progress threatens a state or country, the normal steps of resistance to its beginning and progress are as follows: First, legal action to prevent or arrest the introduction of the pest from without; second, the dissemination of information by the state, and by all other available agencies of education, with respect to the danger threatening and to practical measures of defense and relief; third, community organization, operation and co-operation to bring the intelligence, the public spirit and the enterprise of the people to bear upon the practical problem; and fourth, such additional action by the state as such legislation, law enforcement and executive control—as may be necessary to supplement community work to compel the reluctant, to restrain the unprincipled and to assure the willing that their own work will not be made useless by the negligence of others.

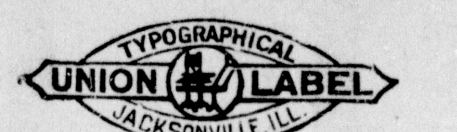

Logically, the people of a community should do what they can for themselves and in their own interest before they look to the state for aid in their undertaking, but it is often the case that in such an emergency the state must intervene to protect the people against themselves, and especially to protect the state as a whole against the ignorance or the negligence of its several communities. If general action must wait upon general education it will often come too late to be effective, and the state must proceed at once to constrain without first taking time to convince. Legislation is, in fact, in itself a powerful educational agency. Nothing could have convinced our horticultural public so generally and so quickly that the San Jose scale was to be feared, but that it might be destroyed, as our so-called San Jose scale law of 1899, and the vigorous measures taken under it by the state entomologist's office.

By thoroughgoing experiments with all possible insecticides, by the publication of circulars, bulletins and reports, by papers and addresses at horticultural meetings, by insecticide demonstrations and operations against the scale in all infested districts, and by proceeding at once to enforce the inspection features of the new law, we not only did what we could to arouse, inform, and advise those most concerned, but we completely prevented anything like a panic such as, in several states east of us, caused a wholesale destruction of infested orchards as worthless.

Thomas Irlam of Midway was attending to business in the city yesterday.

WORLD'S LATEST FINANCIAL AND MARKET NEWS

UNDER-CURRENT OF STRENGTH PERCEPTIBLE IN STOCKS

Early Market Is Inclined to Droop on Account of Unfavorable Foreign Influence.

New York, June 5.—An under-current of strength was perceptible throughout today's listless trading in stocks. The foreign influence was favorable and it was chiefly on this account that the early market here was inclined to droop. Traders took little interest in the dealings and the market was quiet all day.

The supply of stocks was not large. Evidence of underlying firmness lay in the strength of various specialties, such as the fertilizers, the local traction and Wells-Fargo, which gained 1 to 3 points. Westinghouse was the one weak spot, that stock being depressed by the strike of the company's employees. Foreign exchange rates were strong. Another engagement of gold for Europe, amounting in this instance to $2,000,000, was arranged. Time money rates, nevertheless, were lower, on large offerings by institutions which are unable to find profitable employment for the money which has accumulated here.

A gain in cash by the banks on the week of $2,800,000 or more was indicated by the known movements of currency.

GOOD FIELD CONDITIONS OFFSET BULLISH ADVICES

Excellent Harvest Conditions Bring Lively Selling Pressure During Entire Session—Strength Formed the Rule in Corn.

Chicago, June 5.—Auspicious field conditions over the entire domestic and Canadian wheat belt today more than offset bullish advices from Europe and Argentina. In consequence the market here closed easy at the same level as last night, 1-15 to 1-16 net higher; oats off 1/4c, and provisions down 5 to 10c.

It was clear and hot as if made to order for the wheat harvest in the winter crop states. On the other hand, rains beneficial for growth prevailed throughout the spring crop region all the way up into the Canadian northwest.

Lively selling pressure was the result continuously during the session. The fact that the market, notwithstanding, held up as well as it did, appeared largely due to reports of delayed seeding in Argentina, with prospect of the acreage there being diminished.

Strength formed the rule in corn the great part of the day, owing to extreme lightness of country offerings and to a fair demand here from shippers. Low prices from Argentina were contrasted with the fact that shipments from there were only about a third as large as the corresponding time a year ago and that the Liverpool market was showing an advance.

Oats weakened because of rains in the districts that had been complaining of drought damage. Provisions suffered from heavy selling by houses with stockyard connections. The aggressiveness of the move led to comment as to taking place regardless of a further upturn in the value of hogs.

RUDOLPH DIRKS
Original Artist of the
KATZENJAMMER KIDS

There are but few comic artists in the world who can draw such inimitably humorous pictures as Rudolph Dirks. In his own special field of humor he ranks above all others. He is the original artist of the "Katzenjammer Kids." Imitators have tried to follow him and failed. Other artists may draw comic pictures and call them "Katzenjammer Kids," but they are only imitations of the original work of Rudolph Dirks.

When you see such pictures look for the signature of DIRKS. Every picture that DIRKS draws is SIGNED by DIRKS—the others are NOT.

BOARD OF EDUCATION AWARDS
HARDWARE CONTRACT TO BRADY

Total Amount of Bid for Sargent Make Material Is $986.50—Provides for Barlocks—Teacher's Name Omitted From List.

At an adjourned session of the board of education held Friday night the contract for hardware for the new eighth grade building was awarded to Brady Brothers, whose bid was $486.50. This provides for locks on all of the classrooms and bar locks for the assembly room, gymnasium and all outside doors. Quite a little time was taken in discussing the bid and eliminating certain articles of hardware that are not needed at this time.

On motion of Member Wells, with a second by Member Rogerson, the contractor was instructed to construct two closets under the south stairways at a cost of $46.

In the list of appointments of teachers at Thursday's meeting the name of Miss Mattie Ator, appointed for the first ward, was omitted, and this error was corrected. At Friday's meeting Miss Eva Hammond was nominated to take the place of Miss Laura Hammond at the Fourth ward school. Miss Laura Hammond has been named as instructor in the eighth grade. Another error in the list of teachers was the name of Miss Marion Carter, which should have been Miss Lillian Carter.

FRANKLIN FARMERS PLAN ANTI-CHINCH BUG FIGHT

Assistant State Entomologist Tells Method For Combating Pest and Protecting Corn—Waverly Farmers Active in Same Regard.

Cresote and kerosene are the materials with which farmers in Franklin precinct are planning to protect their corn and slay the chinch bug. This method was brought to Franklin by the assistant state entomologist who was there last week and met with about thirty farmers. His services were secured through E. D. Scott, president of the Morgan County Farmers Institute. He suggests that a furrow be plowed around the fields of corn and cresote be applied to the top of the furrow. Post holes should be dug at intervals of twenty feet and coal oil poured in the bottom. The bugs will not cross the cresote line but will pile into the holes and meet their death from poisoning by the kerosene.

Farmers in the Waverly vicinity are also planning a campaign against the chinch bug. It is understood that the services of a university agriculture student have been secured who will direct operations in that vicinity.
